ACCURATE RECORDING

Peoples' recollection of events can change and therefore it's important to make sure that the original account is faithfully recorded. The AV NICHE (Recording System) Limited Rolec P4 will make four identical recordings of an interview with the best sound quality possible using standard C90 P.A.C.E. audio cassette tape.

The same components in the manufacture of the equipment are used within professional sound broadcast equipment thus assuring that the full frequency bandwidth and dynamic range of speech are recorded every time. This high quality of design and manufacture allows a margin of performance which provides an intelligible level of recording under the most demanding of circumstances.

The wide range of the automatic level control will capture a faint whisper, without overloading, even when fists are banged on the table. The exact matching to PZM/ boundary layer microphones ensures that background noise is kept to a minimum.
